NATIVE AMERICAN DANCES

Native Americans have long used dancing to express themselves. Each dance has a deep and emotional meaning to a given tribe. The Great Plains Native American dancers dress in feathers and painted masks for the fast and colorful Fancy Dance. It is the most exciting of the dances. Other Native American dancers perform the Hoop Dance with large hoops that they swing and shape to resemble patterns from nature. It is by far the most difficult dance. The Pueblo Native American dancers, wearing butterfly headdresses, imitate the peaceful life of the butterfly with the Butterfly Dance. The dance is graceful and beautiful.
